

Maximizing the Potential In Your Workforce

A full service, consulting, training, and development firm, Strotevative™ Learning International LLC provides a total solution to your organizational training needs.

At Strotevative™ Learning International we understand that developing and implementing your business goals require a complete offering—the seamless integration of focus, strategy, creativity, innovation, and heart. By leading your workforce through the process to reinforce and change behavior, dissolve the barriers to effective communication, provide the space to stretch, and awaken the leadership within, we unite with you to strengthen your competitive advantage. SLI provides a full range of integrated services to help your organization achieve its business objectives. We do this by maximizing the potential of your most valuable resource—your people—strategically and innovatively.

SLI helps build organizations that truly believe the commitment and involvement of people at all levels are what drive high performance.

Our focus has always been—and continues to be—building skills that have high and immediate business impact, customized learning experiences that deepen understanding, satisfy curiosities, and expand the learner’s experience, creating a workforce of dexterity, proficiency, and aptitude of expertise.

“The consummate training professionals, Melina Antypas and her team worked closely with me to design and develop a customized simulation that was the hit of our weeklong training program. The SLI team created a simulation that took our theoretical concepts and put them into practice with a life-like experience. Experienced and creative, the team was able to perform under tight deadlines and at budget.”

Former Sales Planning Manager,
Kinko’s, Inc.

We specialize in:

- Developing leaders
- Increasing sales effectiveness
- Creating effective communication models and building awareness to ineffective practices
- Building performance management systems that help your organization link individual performance to business goals
- Developing multi-national, multi-cultural, and cross-border organizational alignment

Unfolding the Leader Within

We say that the key to lasting value is new thinking. Our learning designs challenge people's thinking; in particular, what they hold to be true about themselves, their colleagues, their businesses, and their customers. By helping leaders change their mindsets, we have been able to swiftly and permanently impact organizational behavior.

Through the dynamic process of inquiry, experiential exercises, simulations, role-playing, and hands-on coaching, critical concepts are internalized and made accessible in day-to-day work activities. SLI training designs are built to stimulate ways of thinking that generate new actions.

Changing behavior while addressing underlying thinking results in permanent improvements in performance that adapt well to changing circumstances. This is real learning, perfect for our times, because it can last a lifetime and be applied to changing circumstances.

Once someone has engaged powerfully in a new idea, his or her work life is altered forever, and all manner of actions flow naturally from the change that has occurred.

Why Stratevative™ Learning International?

Stratevative™ is committed to supporting organizational talent through a key focus on transforming behaviors.

Our creative team has worked with global Fortune 100-500 organizations, small start-up firms, and everything in between for over two decades.

Because no two organizations are alike and one size does not fit all, Stratevative™ partners with you to help transform the energy in your organization by defining learning objectives that will reach your strategic business goals. Development initiatives are custom designed specifically for your organization's goals, culture, climate, and industry.

Our work integrates new thinking with the practice of leadership, organizational strategy, personal accountability, and organizational alignment, to produce results.

Experience. Service. Quality. These advantages make Stratevative™ the logical choice for helping you sharpen your workforce's performance to improve business growth.

We'd be delighted to talk to you or send you more information about Stratevative™'s services.

"The solution developed for conducting business in Asia was a big success. Ms. Antypas infused her personal and professional international expertise with proven teaching and learning techniques to reach a diverse audience with specific needs as they conduct business in a global community. Evaluation comments of the session illustrated the range of learning that occurred over a short period of time. Ms. Antypas and Stratevative are on my short list of subject matter experts who deliver!"
